

As the new VP of Membership for Pro-Mozart Society, I am also new to the organization. To give you a little of my background, let me start by saying that I was born in New Orleans, LA and lived there until I moved to Atlanta, GA in 2002. As far as musical talent, I have none. My love of music started when I met my high school sweetheart who I was married to for 45 years before he passed away. He was a very talented musician who started playing piano at 8 years old, church organist in the 8th grade, played in many different bands, night clubs, orchestras, taught music and served as Warden Office band director of the Louisiana Army National Guard. His degree was in Music Therapy. So you can see music was his life and became a good part of mine. He introduced me to operas, musicals, jazz, symphony, and big band music just to mention a few. French horn, organ and piano were his main instruments although he taught all woodwinds.

Now for me, I worked in the business world – insurance company, human resource, and executive administrator assistant. My real talent is as a seamstress specializing in window treatments and upholstery but can sew just about anything. Retired now but still continue to sew. Mother of 3 sons and 1 daughter who together gave me 9 grandchildren. Two of my children live near me in Johns Creek with 5 of my grandkids which keeps me very busy. One of my sons has a farm in Costa Rica and another son has a ranch (lama and alpaca) in Arizona. I visit both of them 3 times a year. I am involved in my Church and volunteer with Habitat.
